Our Philosophy

Imagination, Adventure, Honour

As teachers working with kids from 7-18 years of age, we have a strong desire to encourage talents and gifts in young people through the creation of innovative, original productions.

We believe that theatre and filmmaking allows kids of all backgrounds and skill levels the opportunity to develop their individual interests and abilities while working together as a production group.

We believe that the unique opportunities afforded through the collaborative process of creating original stage and screen productions allow creative kids the chance to develop crucial problem solving and team building skills and as well as enhancing confidence and encouraging abilities in a stimulating environment. We believe that by identifying the natural talents and capturing the imagination of each participant we are encouraging youth to venture forth and take their unique place in the world by valuing their own abilities and honouring those around them.

The Esquimalt and Juan de Fuca Recreation Centres, CineVic and Narnia Productions have joined forces with the united goal of offering quality, affordable filmmaking and stagecraft programs to children and teens in the Esquimalt, Colwood and Langford regions. This summer's programs will culminate with Victoria's First Annual Kids' Film Festival, an opportunity for filmmakers to screen their work while offering workshops and seminars to young people in the community at large.

Keynote Speaker and Presenter

Barry Casson- CSC

Barry Casson is a Hollywood trained director/cinematographer and has received numerous national and international awards for his films and videos. Over the past five years he has presented a host of successful seminars on the film industry throughout western Canada.

Barry took his formal film training at Columbia College in Hollywood, California. Upon returning to Victoria, he joined the staff of CHEK Television where he served as a news cameraman for the next 9 years. During this time, Barry also established his own company where he produced, directed and photographed a number of dramas and documentaries that garnered many awards and received National television exposure on CBC. His children's outdoor survival drama, Lost in the Woods, a widely distributed film in both Canada and the US, is now being re-released to a new generation of young people through Magic Lantern Communications.

Throughout his tenure at CHEK, Barry also initiated and taught a part-time film course at Camosun College in Victoria. He built this into a major film program and in 1989, with his partner, Donna Clausen, opened Vancouver Island's first film school and production studio. Under Barry's direction, Victoria Motion Picture School continues operations today with students coming from around the world to attend the program.
